Although Cornin's white wines all show finesse and precision, his 2007 Clos Reyslié is a true triumph in demonstrating the potential of Pouilly-Fuissé. The vineyard is more than 70 years old, planted by Cornin's father just as the dark period of World War II was beginning. Biodynamic farming of the complex clay soils yields the region's finest Chardonnay—pure, rich, healthy fruit. Cornin is judicious with wood; many of his wines see none, but the Clos Reyslié has the flesh and the flavor to integrate with the effects of barrel fermentation and 11 months of oak aging. This is an intensely flavored, pure, mineral-driven, fine wine. Importer: Martine's Wines, Inc., www.martineswines.com.
